What happens if I'm not able to pick up my share on the arranged pick up day?

We have several options to work with you on those days you're unable to pick up your share.

1. Have a friend pick it up for you. Give them the opportunity to enjoy your CSA membership or have them save it for you until you're back in town.
2. Let us know in advance and we'll skip the week you're out of town, but provide you with a double share another week of your choosing.
3. Call us in advance and stop at the farm to pick up on a day that works with your schedule and ours.
4. Let us know in advance and we'll deliver that value of your share to a local food shelf.

What if I forget to pick up my share on my designated day?

Ooops... it happens. It is evening and you realize that you're missing your produce. What do you do? If you still would like to pick up and enjoy your share for the week, you need to call us at 359-2543 by noon the following day to arrange an alternate pickup. Our e-mail is not checked on a timely basis during the busy harvesting mornings but voice mail is! If we haven't heard from you by noon, your share will no longer be available that week.

Do I get to choose what will be included in my share each week?

No, the content of your farm share is based on what's in season each week with lots of variety throughout the season being our number one goal. This is the highlight for many members belonging to our CSA. Rather than choosing the same produce week after week, members will be enjoying the opportunity and convenience of receiving their share ready for their pickup, as well as the chance to try new recipes with the vegetables found in the shares that week. We grow most of the common vegetables available for our climate and only a few not so ordinary ones that we promise we will never intend to oversupply you with. Keep in mind, however, that what is strange to one household is often times common in another! Bumper crops of some vegetables also allow members the luxury of receiving the surplus over and above their weekly share. Most times, we will have a swap box available for members to leave something and take something for those that have a strong dislike for a particular vegetable.

What happens if there is a weather or pest disaster?

In the event of conditions beyond our control such as hail, wind, severe drought, etc., we are committed to continue to do our best to provide you with a weekly share. If this is impossible, we will credit the balance of the undelivered shares to your membership fee for the following year.

Once a week, on your scheduled day, you will pick up your produce at the designated site. Ultimately, this arrangement will assist you in cooking healthier more delicious meals, being more adventurous in your food choices and supporting of local farmers and the local economy. The Guldán family is committed to providing you with a weekly share of fresh produce.

I have read and understand the policies regarding missed shares and weather related risks that are involved in this partnership with Guldán Family Farm.
